

Partnership with Duo Security Offers onthenetOffice Clients Option of Additional Protection

onthenetOffice, the leader in enterprise-level cloud hosting solutions, recently partnered with Duo Security to bring Two-Factor Authentication services to their clients.

onthenetOffice solutions are backed by 4-D Security, a powerful combination of services and technologies designed to provide clients with a robust barrier between their data and any potential security threats. To ensure that your data is 100% secure, 4-D Security combines:

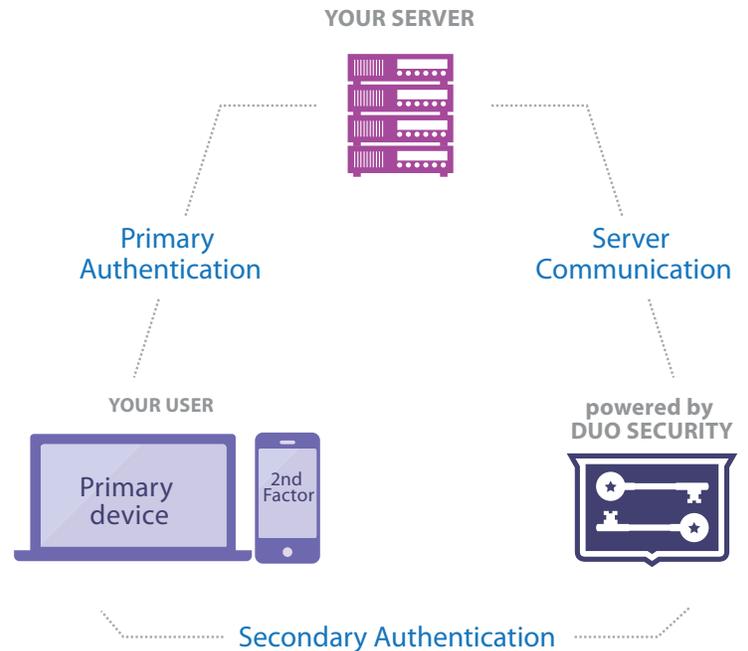

1. Physical & environmental security
2. Logical & system security
3. Operational security and
4. Backup & disaster recovery

Duo Security's Two-Factor Authentication capitalizes on the fact that just about everyone in the corporate world has a mobile phone. When a user wants to access your company's infrastructure, they first enter their username and password like they normally would. Once that is done, their identity is authenticated further (e.g. receiving a call prompting them to press a key to authenticate or downloading a mobile app that generates passcodes). Partnering with Duo Security allows onthenetOffice to offer their clients the option of an additional security measure.

According to CEO Alexander Saca, the onthenetOffice security team chose Duo Security because they are an industry leader that has perfected Two-Factor Authentication and made it available on a larger scale.

"Duo Security offers a variety of authentication options. Their solutions work for businesses of any size and industry and they seamlessly integrate with our existing security measures. They also offered their services at a great price that will benefit our clients."

Alexander Saca, CEO onthenetOffice

By adding Two-Factor Authentication as an option to their existing stellar security measures, onthenetOffice can offer their clients a new layer of protection to guard their data and infrastructures for an additional fee of just $3/month/user.
