

Lunarpages Internet Solutions partners with onthenetOffice to offer the world's most powerful and secure cloud hosted desktop solution.

Lunarpages Internet Solutions announces a strategic partnership with onthenetOffice, a world leader in the cloud hosted application industry, to offer its clients the most powerful and secure virtual desktop solution.

Lunarpages Internet Solutions, an award-winning global web hosting provider, announced the recent partnership with a leading provider in the cloud hosted application industry, onthenetOffice. This valuable partnership now allows Lunarpages to add one of the most revolutionary virtual desktop infrastructures \(VDI\) to its already impressive suite of business tools. The onthenetOffice application delivers secure worldwide-access to their private hosted network extremely fast quickly and effortlessly easily from any PC, tablet or mobile device. It is also compatible with all operating systems and aims to cut IT costs with its all-inclusive support and fixed monthly fees.

Lunarpages Hosted Desktops, powered by onthenetOffice, feature SMX Speed Technology, an innovative blend of technologies and practices that allows onthenetOffice to offer the quickest virtualized desktops around. As a result of the SMX Speed Technology some applications can be launched in less than one second. Covering various areas, ranging from desktops, infrastructure, servers, and more, their expert technicians can resolve any issues and answer any questions or concerns around the clock with 24/7/365 support. Moreover, the patented 4-D Security offered by Lunarpages' Hosted Desktops uses a powerful blend of technologies, best practices, and services designed by onthenetOffice. Some of these features include physical and environmental security, logical and system security, operational security, and backup and disaster recovery.

"This partnership will allow us to present our customers with an emerging technology that will simplify their IT infrastructure and at the same time decrease their operational costs... We are always striving to stay innovative by forming strategic partnerships with the best in the industry and the onthenetOffice team has proven to be the VDI experts."

Lee Coleman, Chief Technology Officer for Lunarpages.

Lunarpages Hosted Desktops relieve stressful and tedious IT tasks, allowing customers to focus on serving their clients. Together, Lunarpages and onthenetOffice will handle all IT needs, including system maintenance, security updates, and software upgrades.

"This partnership with Lunarpages is a great step forward for both companies," onthenetOffice CEO Alexander Saca said. "We are certain that this strategic partnership will deliver innovative solutions to a critical mass of businesses. I am proud to be involved in this venture with Lunarpages, a respected industry leader with whom we share common values and goals."
